The Honorable William E. Colby
Director of Central Intelligence

Dear Bill:

One measure of the effectiveness of your visit with us on March 17 is that days later your remarks were still the subject of comment among the Members of the Seminar. Few of our speakers have stimulated as much independent discussion. We especially appreciated your candor in treating extensively those subjects you could share with us and informing us frankly when you had to speak more circumspectly.

Personally, I interpret your generous donation of time and effort as yet further evidence of your esteem for the Senior Seminar in Foreign Policy. This is gratifying. Be assured we value highly the Agency's cooperation in arranging our program each year and consider the time spent with you and your senior officers a high point on the schedule.

Without exception we wish you well on the course you have charted for the Agency and which you were kind enough to share with us.

Sincerely,

Ambassador John F. Root
Coordinator
